It Is the Only Way of Killing the Walker Repeal.

the People Have It in Their Power to Convince Gov. Hill to Keep the Baturday Half Holiday as It Is-Every Working. man in the City Should Bring the Matter Home to the Governor-Has the New York Voter a Political Memory ?

The friends of the Saturday Half-Holiday aw should lose no time in securing signatures to THE EVENDED WORLD's petition requesting Gov. Hill to veto the bill which restricts the people's half holiday to the months of June, July, August and Septem-

The Governor says that he will not take any action on the bill for at least a week. He has until May 7 to sign or veto it, and workingmen and workingwomen should be very earnest and active in letting Gov. Hill know their wishes.

THE EVENING WORLD has received since Thursday more than 3,000 names of toilers and friends of wage-earners who are up in arms against any interference with the law as it stands. Labor should arise in its might to protect the law that was passed and signed a year ago in their interests.

Laws enacted for the benefit of the poor are sought to be repealed, while laws for the benefit of the rich are never repealed or mended. Gov. Hill has the reputation of being the friend of the wage-workers and the wage-workers should ask him to refuse to sign the Compromise Repeal bill now before

The people are very much in earnest about this matter. Strong, ringing letters come with the signatures to the petitions by every mail. Some of the writers ask that their names be not published, as they fear that their capitalistic employers would make them suffer for it.

A bank clerk writes: "For the love of A bank clerk wirves: For the love of justice, let the people arise and make themselves heard by Gov. Hill! Now is the time to demonstrate the wants of the people. Oh, you who toil without hope of rest, arise! best back the ranks of capital and the hordes Best back the ranks of capital and the formopoly:"

C. W. Hoadley, a prominent Knight of Labor, of 707 East Thirteenth street, writes: "Prompted by a desire to exemplify a cardinal principle of the K. of L.—'To lend a helping hand to all branches of honorable toil'—I add my name to the people's protest against the iniquitous measure called the 'Walker' bill, and I pray it may be made to

'Walker' bill, and I pray it may be made to go."

A bookkeeper for a Broadway corporation writes: "Shall men with votes stand idly by without protest while the capitalist usurps their rights? Shall they utter no complaint while the corporation uses their brain and fibre for selfish gain? Are we dumb slaves that we should not have our rights—we, the people, the power of the country? Let The Evening World stick to its guns."

A Union square salesman writes: "This is the people's own fight, and well does the aggressive Evening World bear the brunt of it. It does seem strange that public men will not obey the will of the people who made them. Cannot some way be devised for punishing the men who have betrayed the people's trust? Has the voter a memory?"

Henry Silleck, a Bostonian, on a visit to a friend in East Twenty-second street, writes:

Good for THE EVENING WORLD! Bring it home to the Governor. Let the people enlighten him as to their wishes."

KATE'S HERO.

The production of "Held by the Enemy" at Niblo's Garden Monday night, when Gillette, the author of the play, will appear as the correspondent, will introduce for the first time Miss Viola Allen in the part of Rachel, while Miss Minnie Dupree will join the company as Susan. The production will be given a very good mounting by Mr.

Miss Kate Forsythe is to create the principal part in Mrs. Charles Doremus's new play to be produced at an authors' matinee at the Madison Square Theatre, May 16. In the cast will be Nelso. Waestcroft, Henry Miller and very possibly Eben Plympton. Miss Forsythe says that she intends returning to London in June in the interests of a play, which may be given in this country later. Miss Forsythe, however, is so comfortably endowed with the good things of this world that dramstic work with her is not considered very seriously. She had an important appointment with Mr. Hill the other day set down for 3 r. m. Great things were expected from this, and Miss Forsythe's friends breathlessly waited to hear of her engagement with Manager Hill's new company. Miss Forsythe never showed up at all, and it is said that at 4.30 she suddenly remarked to some ladies she had been entertaining: "Good gracional I had an appointment at 8 o'clock. Well, there's no good bothering about it now. I shouldn't be able to find Robson and Crane are doing a tremendous business at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, and are said to be averaging $1,400 per performance. The indications are that the comedians, during their four weeks stay in the Hub, will make a "barrel of money." Young Frank Dupree, a journalist, has written a play called "Marriage by Proxy," and it is said that two managers are at present "considering" it for next season. If Mr. Dupree gets his firstborn disposed of so easily, there must be some thing extremely unusual about it.

Fred McCloy, whose interests were once very strongly allied with those of Mr. Frederick Bryton, has a new star in view-a young woman of some eighteen summers, called Della Fox. Miss Fox, it is said, was the very first Editha, in the sketch anown as "Editha's Burgiar," and is considered bright and pretty. Spe is a St. Louis damsel, and she is going abroad to do the conventional study.

Mr. McCloy thinks a great deal of the young woman and is anxious to identify himself with her interests. Miss Fox will at least possess a manager who knows his business from its alpha to omega.

It is said that Frank W. Sanger is negotiating with John A. Mackay for the comedian's appearance in a lively piece called "Tragedy." The Mr. Sanger owns the American rights.

Col. John A. McCauli was on Broadway yesterday morning with the aid of a crutch. The Colonel says that he has never felt better in himself, but does not expect to be able to lay aside his wooden support before Christmas. "During my illness," he said, '11 lost twenty-five pounds. I got it all back, and now I am worried because I have gained

Mrs. James Brown Potter surprised everybody by doing a large business at the Baldwin Theatre, san Francisco, where she played for one week. The life of the jewelled and saccharine Kyrle does not seem to have been one of unalloyed bliss of Newton Beers's play, "Lost in London," will be given at H. R. Jacoba's Third Avenue Theatre next week. The play is one full of human interest, and dealing with the trials and tribulations of an erring wife. Mr. Beers will appear as the hero. Job Armroyd, and Miss Jessie Lee Randolph as the erring wife, Nellie. There will be two ballets, excellent scenery, painted by Henry E. There was a rumor on Broadway vesterday that Manager Amberg had transferred his lease of Irving Hall to H. R. Jacobe, who intends to make of the place a popular-priced theatre. If this be true, Irving Hall will be a terrible thorn in the sides of the Academy of Music.

EVERY-DAY TALK AT THE THEATRES. PUGILISTS AND ATHLETES.

A FEW POINTS FOR JOHN L SULLIVAN'S CAREFUL CONSIDERATION.

pects for the summer look remarkably bright. McCaffrey and Jem Smith are to meet in public in this country, and some sort of a contest between Sullivan and Kilrain is almost certain. That Sulliyan has made another big blunder in coming out with a challenge to do battle in a sixteen-foot ring is the opinion of many New York sporting men. Ed Kearney spoke of it the other evening. He said : " I might as well challenge a man to play me billiards on a table 4 by 3 feet." A roped and staked inclosure, 24 feet square, has been the recognized fighting-ground for championship pugilistic encounters for generations, and an attempt to change the diminsions in either direction is a confession of weakness. When a 16-foot ring was agreed upon for the memorable battle between Mace and Goss a quarter of a century ago, it was made as a favor to Goss, who was no way backward in admitting that he had tried and could not hope to lick the wily Gypsy in a regulation ring. Goss was beaten even more decisively in the amailer square. Sullivan's best way to regain his lost prestige is to come out squarely and say: "I failed Sullivan's best way to regain his lost prestige is to come out squarely and say: "I failed to beat Mitchell because of an accident to my right arm, his frequently spiking me and the loose way in which the time was kept. I'll fight him again in New Orleans or Mexico for all the money he can raise, in a 44-foot ring if necessary, with any fair referee who will act, and let the Americans who go to see the fight judge if the stories some people would have you believe are worthy of credence. If Mitchell won't meet me I'll fight Kilrain."

Hale Robinson says he is going to put up a forfeit with a challenge from Jem Fell to George Le Blanche to fight for $250 a side.

Billy Dally would like to match Jack Delancey against Tommy Barnes for a finish fight with skin-tight gloves.

Tom Buckley, the ex-champion amateur 24-hour walker, of Brooklyn, is training for the Manhattan Athletic Club's 25-mile walk Uptown sports are trying to get up a match for a finish fight between young Gorman, of Yorkville, and the Harlem Spider.

George A. Burrell, the ex-walker of the Pastimes, is just out after a severe illness. He will run instead of walk this season, Dan Lehane, another Pastime Athletic Club man, is training for the 25-mile walk on May 19.

The Brooklyn Athletic Association's games on May 30 promise to be interesting. The running high jump will be closely contested by Wiegand, Pritchard and an unknown, said by Billy Robertson to be a dandy.

Alexander Brown, the Brooklyn heavy-weight, who fought Leonard Tracey some five or six years ago, is now pitching for the Brooklyn Athletic Association's nine. He struck out nineteen men in one afterno

Eugene Hornbacher, the successful light Eugene Hornbacher, the successful light-weight puglist, has two engagements on his hands at present. One is with Tom Flaherty, of Boston: the other with Charley McCarthy, the ex-amateur champion feather-weight. If Hornbacher beats McCarthy he must be called a good one. He will have to fight fast and strong to defeat the Scottish-American Athletic Club man.

Jack Fallon and Red Smith, of Brooklyn, who recently fought a seventy-two-round London rules prize-fight, are now sparring partners in a dime museum engagement.

Betting on the coming cross-country championship is hard to particularize, though there is lots of it going on, especially among Wall street men. The Suburban Harriers' team is said to be a favorite among the brokers. A good judge of athletics wanted to bet that Carter, Conneff and Gilbert would be the first three wan in although perhaps not that Carter, Connen and Gilbert would be the first three men in, although perhaps not in the order named. Freith, of the Prospect Harriers, says that if Carter does not win the individual championship his club's team is likely to get the trophy.

George Slosson, the billiard champion, is at the Gilsey House. He will enjoy himself during the summer, and determine where to locate in the autumn.

Queer Fits and Starts.

The fits and starts-using these words in their litera meaning—of the nervous people often strike the beholder as ludicrous. The nerves of hearing of such unfortunates are painfully acute, and impinged by abrupt, unexpected noises, lead them sometimes to perform antica wurthy or a jumping-jack. At the root of nervousness, in most in-stances, is non-assimilation of the food, and conse-quently innutrition of the nerves as of the other tissues of the body. This prolonged is, of course, productive of serious nervous disease. The remedy is Hostetter's Stom-ach Bitters, that invigorate the stomach and enables it to perform its functions properly. Soon after commencing a course of it it will be found that the nerves grow more tranquil by day, nightly repose becomes less interrupted and appetite more vigorous and satisfying. These are the initial indications, followed by the complete restoration of nervous vigor. The Bitters also cure fever and gue, liver complaint and constitution.

And Mollie went down on the carpet to hunt for it.
"There he is!" exclaimed Kate.
Mollie raised her head and looked inquirshe had ever met. Who he was, was a great mystery.

It had only been for the last few weeks that Kate had noticed him at all, and then she was struck by his being a stranger. Since that time he had passed the house regularly every day, but no one seemed to know who he was. The very next day after Mollie's visit Kate at sewing near the window. It was an unusually warm day, and she had thrown open the French casement in front of the house, which opened directly on the pretty door, yard.

"Lucky event! But tell me why he didn't open the gate and walk in instead of leaping over the railing?"

"You goose!" cried Kate.

And then they both laughed, and waltzed to the piano, where the new music lay fresh and attractive. They sat down, and rattled it off this time as if they knew it by heart.

Mollie kept her bright eyes on the window, in hopes of seeing the charming young man; but he didn't pass again while she was there.

Kate, however, had the pleasure of a respectful bow from him that evening, which she timidly acknowledged, following him with her gaze as long as he was in sight, and deciding him to be the very handsomest man she had ever met. Who he was, was a great mystery.

It had only been for the last few weeks that

In very many respects it is so different from any and all other medicines ever offered to the public that it is with medicines ever offered to the public that it is with peculiar force and propriety that it may be said to be Protilian to Itactr. In its very origin, ten years ago, Hood's Sarsaparilia was peculiar. A gentleman who had suffered intensely with neuralgic pains, and had tried many physicians and medicines without relief, at last took to the pharmacy of C. I. Kate was just led to thinking what a happy, careless race the Ethiopians were, and how Mingo, in particular, was a good-natured, frolicsome fellow, never so happy as when in mischief, when suddenly she heard a sharp, strange noise, and with wild shricks the door from the office was burst open and Mingo's little sister rushed in enveloped in flames.

She darted through the open window, and Kate, terrified beyond measure, was about to follow her, when her unknown friend, as if by magic, was by the poor girl's side, and throwing her on the grass, had his coat off and around her in a moment.

Kate smatched the plano-cover and rushed to his assistance. By this time the poor child's cries had drawn everybody in the neighborhood of the spot, and when the flames were entirely subdued they carried her in. Fortunately the doctor's buggy hove in sight down the street, and he was soon at knows.

The child was frightfully burned about her
